Meeting this Tuesday School board taking case for funding to community

By Bill Rea

The Peel District School Board believes it's getting short changed when it comes to when it comes to Special Education High Needs Amount (HNA) funding, and is taking its case to the community.

The effort started Tuesday as Board Chair Janet McDougald appeared before Caledon council, seeking support.

As well, a meeting is planned for this coming Tuesday (Feb. 18) at 7 p.m. in the library SouthFields Village Public School, at 110 Learmont Ave.

McDougald told councillors

the Board has started the effort to fix the funding formula for special education, with presentations before school councils, municipalities and community leaders.

The council unanimously voted to direct Mayor Marilyn Morrison to write a letter of support for the Board to Premier Kathleen Wynne, Education Minister Liz Sandals, Finance Minister Charles Sousa, local MPPs, municipal councils and the Board.

McDougald maintained the Peel Board is funded the lowest of all 72 boards in the province per pupil for HNA. The Board gets $339 per student, while the Dufferin-Peel Catholic District School Board gets $375 and the Halton District School Board gets $601.

McDougald told councillors

the Province established the funding formula 10 years ago, and has never recognized the growth in Peel since then. While she agreed the formula is complicated, she said it was created by a flawed process. Board staff had to see each kid who had special needs was identified at the time, and things have not changed.

"It was as if it was captured in a moment of time and has been applied over the last 10 years," she commented.

Board has about 22,000 students with special needs, McDougald said, adding the number has been increasing for some time. She observed the cases of autism are more common. She pointed out people move to Peel, attracted by the services available for such people and world-class hospitals.

As things stand now, the Board's spending on special needs exceeds the Provincial funding by about $14 million annually. McDougald admitted with an operating budget of some $1.5 billion, that doesn't sound like much.

"We scrape and scrounge another $14 million to support special needs students, be-

Western option seems favoured in Bolton Residential Expansion

By Bill Rea

The Town is still seriously looking at two possible options for the planned expansion of Bolton, and the western alternative seems to have the edge.

Consultants updated Caledon councillors on the latest progress on the Bolton Residential Expansion Study, and while no decisions has been made, they indicated the option, known as Option 3 or Go Station Focus, seems the more attractive of the two on a couple of levels.

This was one of six options considered, and it was the one favoured by the consultants in their recommendation last year. The lands are on Humber Station Road, between the Canadian Pacific Railway tracks and The Gore Road, north of King Street.

At the same time last summer, councillors also voted to continue looking at one of the options on the village's north hill, known as Option 1.

The consultants told councillors there are no significant differences between the two options from an environmental perspective. But in terms of servicing and transportation, Option 3 had advantages.

Jim Dougan of Dougan and Associates addressed the natural heritage issues.

Commenting on Option 1, he said there are no provincially significant wetlands (PSW) in the area, adding there a small wetland in fields west of Highway 50 and other small wetlands in a significant woodlot that is part of the Provincial Greenbelt. He also said these lands are confined a lot by the Greenbelt.

Referring to Option 3, Dougan said the Greenbelt is not as big a factor. He added there are some streams and small wetlands. One of the streams is a tributary that performs a floodplain function.

Nick McDonald of Meridian Planning said more work is required in the creation of a natural heritage system, which is required by Peel Region. But he didn't think there would be any surprises.

“We feel very confident that we're going to be able to meet the Region of Peel's requirement,” he commented.

Dougan told Councillor Rob Mezzapelli they have been looking 120 metres beyond the boundaries of the two options. He added the boundaries of the Greenbelt are fairly conservative.

Chris Hamel of BluePlan Engineering Consultants Limited, spoke on preferred strategies for water and wastewater servicing for the two options.

He said the water servicing costs of installing the infrastructure for Option 1 would be about $39 million, yet only about $35 million for Option 3. The wastewater cost for Option 1 would be about $34 million, and just $11 million for Option 3.

Councillor Richard Whitehead stressed the need for people to understand these figures are development charge issues, not taxpayer issues. He said it's the development industry that will pay.

Philip Grubb of Paradigm Transportation Solutions, went through the number of road widenings that would likely be deemed necessary from the two options.

For Option 1, he said the northwest portion of the Bolton Arterial Road (BAR) would need to be four lanes. He also said six-lane sections would be indicated for parts of Coleraine Drive and Queen Street south of King Street, and King Street and Mayfield Road would have to be widened to four lanes.

Several councillors wondered how a widening of Queen Street would be accomplished. McDonald said the suggestions were based on the results of traffic studies, and not likely to become reality. Whitehead pointed out the heavy truck traffic will be off that street as soon as the BAR is finished.

For Option 3, Grubb said Mayfield and King would need to be widened to four lanes, and there would be to be widenings of The Gore Road from King to Mayfield and Humber Station Road from King to Healey Road.

There are also two rail crossings that come into play, across Coleraine and King. Grubb said both options would trigger grade separations (either overpass or underpass) at the King crossing. A grade separation at Coleraine would only be triggered by Option 1.

Grubb said either option would see about 70 per cent of the resulting commuter traffic heading south and west. Since Option 3 is the more southern of the two, he said that would mean less gas consumption, fewer emissions and reduced travel times.

Grubb told Whitehead it wouldn't be necessary to widen Humber Station south of Healey because a lot of the southbound traffic would turn there to get to the nearby employment lands or head toward Mayfield West.

He also told Councillor Nick deBoer that wouldn't result in enough traffic to justify widening Healey.

Mezzapelli said he was surprised there wasn't more call for grade separation on Coleraine. He said one of the things they're looking for is efficient movement of traffic, and that rail crossing is seen as a problem.

Peel Board could get $15 million per year if formula changes

cause we know that's the right thing to do,” she commented.

She said an improved formula is available, and the Province is aware of it. McDougald said it's realistic, asking only for a reallocation of the money available.

She said she believes the revised formula would result in between $14-and-15 million per year for the Board.

“This is not a problem of over-spending, but under-funding,” McDougald said.

She also agreed that if the Peel Board gets more money, some other board has to lose it, and that will require a political decision.

Realizing some board might have to lose money, McDougald said they would suggest changes be phased in.

“I don't know how we can be more reasonable than that,” she said.

Morrison harkened back to what she called under-funding from 20 years ago when she was a trustee on the Board.

Councillor Gord McClure commented he has six grandchildren.

“This is something we've got to think about,” he remarked. “The kids are our fu-

McDougald admitted to Councillor Allan Thompson officials from the other boards might have done a better job 10 years ago when it came to getting more money from the Province. “We can't unring that bell,” she observed, adding the process was still flawed because it lacked consistency.

“Peel is a magnet,” Councillor Richard Paterak observed, adding he moved from Dufferin County about 30 years ago because of the schools in Peel.

“We just have to look at fairness,” Councillor Nick deBoer said.

McDougald told him Peel is penalized because data has not been updated.

Town seeking public input with regard to intensification strategy

The Town has started a study to determine how intensification will be incorporated throughout Caledon.

Public opinion is an important part of the process, and the Town will be hosting three meetings this coming Tuesday (Feb. 18). They will be from 9:30 a.m. to noon at Caledon Village Place, 18313 Hurontario St., 1 to 3:30 p.m. at Inglewood Community Centre, 15825 McLaughlin Rd, and 7 to 9 p.m. at Albion-Bolton Community Centre.

Intensification is an increase in density caused by growth, and can be achieved in several ways, from new development of vacant land within built-up areas as well as the redevelopment of under-used lands. Intensification, in the right built form, can help strengthen neighbourhoods by improving and utilizing existing community services, roads and infrastructure.

Competitions will highlight SnowFest activities this coming Monday

Sochi isn't the only place where there's winter competition. Spirited competition will take center stage at the third annual SnowFest Family Day this coming Monday (Feb. 17). Presented by James Dick Construction, service clubs, community groups, volunteer firefighters, elementary school children and regional ambassadors will compete for podium position and coveted gold, silver and bronze medals at the Caledon Fairgrounds. One of the most hotly contested events at SnowFest is the Chilly Cook-Off, with eight service clubs, churches and community groups vying for culinary honours. Judged by award-winning chefs from three renowned restaurants; Bistro Riviere, Terra Cotta Inn and Ray's Third Generation Bistro, visitors to SnowFest can experience culinary wizardry at its best. Excitement mounts for the first ever Alliance Agri-Turf Ambassador Challenge which is enthusiastically supported by representatives from eight agricultural fair boards across the region including: Acton, Bolton, Caledon, Erin, Grand Valley, Schomberg, Shelburne and Orangeville. These young ambassadors will go toe-to-toe in a timed obstacle course which tests their strength, agility and team spirit. Students from elementary schools across Caledon will compete in the Snow Castle competition, supported by the Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) program and judged by the incomparable creative talents of local artists Lucille Weber and Wendy McLeod, as well as local photographer Lisa Scales, with a competition theme this year that is none other than the Olympics! DARE will also have a police cruiser for public education on site. Medal fever builds for the blockbuster Fire Fighter's Challenge involving Caledon Fire Stations as they go head to head in a race against the clock, station against station, over simulated fire and rescue obstacles. Throughout the day, visitors can climb McDonalds Snow Mountain, test their blades on the public skating rink, learn snowshoeing from Caledon Hills Cycle, watch wood carver Kevin Pinkney and the ice sculpture demonstrations brought to you by the Shriners Club. The Orangeville Snowmobile Club will be on site, teaching safety as well as having their rescue sled on display with maps showing local snowmobile trails for the enthusiast. Arguably the hottest tickets in town are the horse drawn sleigh rides, generously sponsored by Orangeville Home Hardware and Orangeville AutoSport, and the dog sled rides provided by The Good Guys Carting Dogs, with all proceeds donated to support dog guides. Maple sugar taffy (also known as sugaring-off), presented by Love's Sweetness, Howard the Butcher's incomparable beef burgers and the legendary Beavertails will bring winter comfort food to SnowFest visitors. Voted 2013 Festival/Event of the Year by Ontario Tourism for the Hills of Headwaters Region, SnowFest will run from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Fairgrounds on Highway 10 in Caledon village. Admission and parking is free. For more information and schedules, visit www.snowfestcaledon.ca SnowFest is owned and managed by the volunteers of the Caledon Agricultural Society, and is the first of three events this season. The other two are Caledon Fair (June 6 to 8) and Canada Day Strawberry Festival (July 1). All proceeds raised during these events are dedicated to community based projects, refurbishment and maintenance of the 154-year-old grounds.

Tilson unimpressed with Trudeau bouncing senators

By Bill Rea

Federal Liberal Leader Justin Trudeau recently kicked all 32 of his party's senators out of caucus, announcing they will now be independents. But Dufferin-Caledon MP David Tilson didn't think the move would amount to much. "My personal view is he's trying to get into the news," Tilson told the Citizen last Thursday. Trudeau made the announcement last Wednesday, commenting that "the Senate, through extreme patronage and partisanship, has become an institution that poorly serves the interests of Canadians." "As of today, the National Liberal Caucus will only include elected Members of Parliament, and not senators," he added. "This action will immediately mean that each of the 32 current Liberal senators will become independent of the Liberal Caucus." He also called for an open, transparent and non-partisan appointment process for Senators. "I believe that Canadians are rightly seeking an effective institution that debates the difficult issues they are facing today," Trudeau remarked. "Equally, I believe that Canadians have no desire to reopen the Constitution. I am taking action today with these reforms, and I hope to earn the opportunity to go further as Prime Minister."

"It's all very strange that Trudeau has done what he has," Tilson commented. "There was no consultation. The Liberals were taken completely by surprise." Tilson also said he had been talking with Liberal Senator James Cowan, who didn't think the change impacted him much. "He's not a former Liberal," Tilson said. "He's a Liberal and he's a Liberal senator."

"It sounds like there's a change, but there really isn't," Tilson added. The opposition in the Senate will still be Liberal. He also said party members receive funding to do research, and that will continue. The announcement of an independent body to appoint senators was a little confusing. "Who's going to choose the independent body?" Tilson wondered. "Where are they going to come from?" Tilson said the Conservative position is to have an elected Senate. "If we can't do that, we want it abolished," he said. "They're not accountable. Now Liberals aren't even accountable to their own party." Conservative senators do attend caucus meetings and take part in debates. That won't be happening in the Liberal caucus. "I guess they're going to have a smaller room," Tilson observed. He also pointed out the Grit senators are not going to be as aware of party policies. He also observed New Democrats want the Senate abolished, he said a Constitutional amendment would be needed, meaning cooperation from the provinces.

14 Critical Home Inspection Traps to be Aware of Weeks Before Listing Your Home for Sale

HEADWATERS REGION – According to industry experts, there are over 33 physical problems that will come under scrutiny during a home inspection when you home is for sale. A new updated report has been prepared which identifies the fourteen most common of these problems, and what you should know about them before you list your home for sale. Whether you own an old home or a brand new one, there are a number of things that can fall short of requirements during a home inspection. If not identified and dealt with, any of these 14 items could cost you dearly in terms of repair. That's why it's critical that you read this report before you list your home. If you wait until the building inspector flags these issues for you, you will almost certainly experience costly delays in the close of your home or, worse, turn prospective buyers away altogether. In most case, you can make a reasonable pre-inspection yourself if you know what you're looking for, and knowing what you're looking for can help you prevent little problems from growing into costly and unmanageable ones. To help homesellers deal with this issue before their homes are listed, a free report entitled "14 Things You Need to Know to Pass Your Home Inspection" has been compiled which explains the issues involved. To order a FREE Special Report, visit www.HomeInspectionInfoB4USell.info or to hear a brief recorded message about how to order your FREE copy of this report call toll-free 1-866-500-3429 and enter ID# 503. # THE ONE PUBLIC MEETING YOU DON'T WANT TO MISS

Caledon Town Hall
6311 Old Church Rd, Caledon East
Thurs February 20, 2014
6:00 Open House 7:00 Presentation

On January 21st Town of Caledon staff brought forward Report DP-2014-011 Growth Forecasts Review - Growth Options to Council. Given the scope of the recommendations contained in the report I moved that it be referred back to staff and that a meeting be set to gather public input. Councillor Mezzapelli seconded my Motion which passed unanimously. Please join us on February 20th and share your views.

How much growth has Caledon seen in recent years?

According to Census data, between 2006 and 2011 Caledon grew by 2,500 people. Elsewhere in Peel, Brampton and Mississauga grew by roughly 90,000 and 45,000 respectively. Most of the Caledon growth occurred in Mayfield West and Caledon East.

When will Bolton see any growth again?

While a small amount of "filling in" is happening, a residential expansion for Bolton is not slated to begin until nearer the end of this decade. The number of people planned in that expansion is roughly 10,500 and this would occur over a number of years.

I came here because I wanted to live in a small town; why do we need ANY growth?

I came here for the same reason. And while I hope Caledon never becomes a city I do recognize that SOME growth is important to us. Reasons include infrastructure renewal, support for our businesses (we want our local shops, and restaurants to stay viable so they are there when we need them), and property tax revenue (our aging infrastructure and the increasing services we require both cost money).

Does that mean we need to add a lot of population? or perhaps more industry?

It means we have to find the right balance. And not just how much population, but when, and where. It's also important to recognize that Caledon residents currently carry the lion's share of the property tax burden (81%). Adding more industry would change that ratio and help keep residential property taxes in check while, at the same time, providing customers for restaurants and shops.

Councillor Mezzapelli has provided further data around the population forecasts to the right.

Many may not realize but the Province of Ontario, through various Acts and Policies, require municipalities in the Greater Golden Horseshoe to plan for population and employment growth. The Places to Grow Act was passed in 2006 with a planning horizon of 2031.

Our current Official Plan was approved by Council back in 2009. This plan takes Caledon from its 2011 population of roughly 60,000 to 108,000 by 2031 or 48,000 additional people over 20 years. Growing our population by 80 % will be a period of considerable growth for Caledon, the greatest we have ever experienced.

The Province has indicated recently that municipalities need to plan for the next horizon which is 2041. Within Peel, Brampton, Caledon and Mississauga are currently determining how many of the 330,000 people and 100,000 jobs each will be taking.

This 10 year planning period has the real potential to accelerate the growth rate in our current Official Plan. The 5 possible growth option scenario's Council recently received in a report range anywhere from 132,000 people and 59,000 jobs to 167,000 people and 94,000 jobs (all numbers are total). I have suggested to Council and Staff that many in our community would elect for a lower number, reflecting a slower rate of growth.

Bolton, Mayfield West, and to a smaller degree Caledon East will accommodate the vast majority of this growth. It is fair to say however, that the impact of this growth will be felt Caledon-wide.

The vision and dreams you have for Caledon are yours. I want to encourage that whatever your position, Council and staff need to hear it as together we chart Caledon's course for the future.

If there is one meeting to attend to have your position heard I believe this is it because the course that is chosen will have a profound influence on what Caledon is and more importantly, what it will become.

Please come out and have your voice heard. Encourage your friends and neighbours to come out. If you can't attend, please consider sending a letter/e-mail to register your position.

Police frustrated winter driving warnings not heeded

Winter is not over, and OPP want drivers to keep that in mind.

In spite of issuing a stern warning prior to last week's heavy winter weather, police once again responded to a series of multi-vehicle collisions last Wednesday along Ontario highways.

Dozens of crashes, involving hundreds of vehicles, including numerous tractor trailers, occurred in various parts of southern Ontario, during poor weather and reduced visibility.

Deputy Commissioner Brad Blair, provincial commander of Traffic Safety and Operational Support, expressed his frustration.

"We are frustrated that, one week after issuing an important warning, motorists are failing to change their driving behaviour and adjust their driving to the conditions," he commented last Thursday. "Yesterday's storm was forecasted by meteorologists and gave motorists ample time to prepare or make alternative plans where non-essential travel was involved, so there is no valid excuse for the mayhem and the resulting injuries we saw on our highways and roads again yesterday."

Once again Blair urged motorists to maintain full control of their vehicles at all times, which means slowing right down and allowing extra space between vehicles. For visibility, motorists are urged to use full headlights in challenging conditions. According to Blair, police observed many drivers failing to take these critical measures and this contributed to the majority of last Wednesday's collisions.

The collisions included numerous commercial motor vehicles and, while police acknowledge that many drivers of these large vehicles are driving with care, officers continue to observe a number of them who do not slow down and leave ample space and stopping distance.

Police ask motorists to report these offenders to them.

Ontarians are incurring significant property damage and personal injury costs, and other direct costs for business and industry due to the unacceptably high volume of collisions so far this winter. Irresponsible driving cannot continue throughout the winter, said Blair.

OPP hopes its education efforts and public appeals will lead to immediate changes in driver behaviour and prevent emergency responders from being called to countless collision scenes.

Motorists are encouraged to visit the Ontario Ministry of Transportation (MTO) website at www.mto.gov.on.ca for traveller's information such as winter road conditions, construction reports, road closures, traffic reports, traffic cameras and interactive mapping.

Brampton man charged with impaired

A 29-year-old man from Brampton was charged Jan. 21 after a concerned citizen spotted a suspected impaired driver on Highway 10.

Caledon OPP reports the citizen reported the suspect in the northbound lanes shortly before 2 a.m., then was able to get the vehicle to stop. The driver got out of the black Pontiac Sunfire and started walking south. Police arrived and found him about 150 metres from his car.

Police said the officer who approached the man detected a strong odour of alcohol on his breath, he seemed unsteady on his feet and his eyes were glossy.

The man was charged with impaired operation of a motor vehicle and driving with more than the legal limit of alcohol in his system.

His licence was suspended on the spot and his car was impounded for seven days.

Man arrested for mischief in Bolton

A 21-year-old Caledon man faces charges after a disturbance outside a Bolton establishment early in the morning of Feb. 2.

Caledon OPP officers were called out shortly after 1:50 p.m. They learned that two males had entered the establishment earlier that morning and commented to an employee that they owned weapons. As a precaution, the men were asked to leave. Police report they were apparently displeased with the request and upon exiting, one of the males caused damage to a glass window.

Police charged the suspect with mischief under $5,000.

Be careful around snowbanks

OPP are asking the public to exercise caution when comes to snowbanks and automobiles.

Parents are being asked to discuss the dangers associated with playing on or tunnelling into snowbanks with their kids.

With the amount of snow that has fallen this winter, and with more likely to come, the overall height of area snowbanks is impeding the safety of motorists travelling on the road as those exiting from driveways are unable to have a clear and unobstructed view of approaching traffic.

OPP Central Region Commander Chief Superintendent John Tod is urging drivers to be extra cautious when backing out of driveways.

"The height of these snowbanks is making it very hard to see other motor vehicles and snowmobiles that also use our roads at this time of year," he pointed out. "If snowbanks cannot be reduced, backing into a driveway may be safer way to provide a means of exit when that time comes."

"Traffic safety is a shared responsibility and everyone must do their part and make safety part of any travel plans," he added. "Winter is far from over, so let's work together to make it free from any unnecessary tragedy."

Owner of King City’s Hogan’s Inn Bob Rose passes away

By Mark Pavilons
The warm and welcoming owner of one of King Township’s landmarks has died. Robert “Bob” Rose, owner of the historic Hogan’s Inn in King City, passed away at Princess Margaret Hospital, surrounded by family Feb. 8. He was 75. Mr. Rose had an accomplished career in the financial sector, but it was Hogan’s Inn that he seemed most proud of. He was as charming and hospitable as his prized establishment itself, something he referred to as “a unique piece of property and history” not only for King but for visitors far and wide. He was extremely proud of the award-winning Hogan’s, stressing “it’s like nowhere else.” King Mayor Steve Pellegrini extended his condolences to the Rose family. He said most evenings you could see Mr. Rose’s smiling face dining in his own establishment. He was always very pleasant and cordial and he will be missed. Thanks to Mr. Rose’s efforts, “everyone knows about Hogan’s Inn,” the mayor pointed out. Couples and families shared stories and anecdotes of visits to Hogan’s with Mr. Rose over the years. He welcomed visitors from the U.K., U.S. and even Australia who found Hogan’s atmosphere warm and inviting. Mr. Rose loved the people of King and enjoyed sharing small talk with regulars and families who frequented the restaurant. He was a modern day entrepreneur, but he loved the history and ambiance of his favourite eatery. Hogan’s and its owner helped make local history. He will be lovingly remembered by his children Craig, Wendy and her husband Brian O’Leary, and Jordan and his wife Melissa; and their mother Mary Lou. Loving grandfather of Connor and Elissa.

Bob Rose

Dear son of the late Frederick, and stepson of Catherine “Cal” Rose. Known for introducing himself as a tall good-looking fellow with glasses and a great athlete who has a body of an 18-year-old, he enjoyed life and the people who surrounded him daily. A well-respected Bay Street boy, he loved to work more than anything else and would become totally engaged with the people and companies that he became involved with. Mr. Rose could be described as larger than life with a certain flare for fashion and with an exuberant personality. Always generous to those in need and able to call a spade a spade, he will be remembered as a great trader and fair businessman, and a wonderful provider for his family.

Zonta Club to mark International Women’s Day

Women’s equality has made positive gains, but the world is still unequal. International Women’s Day (IWD) celebrates the social, political and economic achievements of women while focusing attention on areas requiring further action. IWD will be celebrated March 8. The first International Women’s Day was held in 1911. Thousands of events occur to mark the economic, political and social achievements of women. Organizations, governments, charities, educational institutions, women’s groups, corporations and the media celebrate the day.

During his final days, Mr. Rose met the challenges of his medical condition with great fight, courage and dignity. He will be missed and remembered with much love. A celebration of Mr. Rose’s life will be held at the Design Exchange, 234 Bay St., Toronto Feb. 27 at 3 p.m. Details are available on Mr. Rose’s memorial at www.turnerporter.ca. For family and close friends, a funeral will be held at All Saints’ Anglican Church, 12935 Keele St., King City, today (Thursday) at 1 p.m., followed by interment at King City Cemetery. In Mr. Rose’s memory, memorial donations may be made to Bridgepoint Foundation.

The Zonta Club of Brampton/Caledon will be sponsoring a breakfast. All are invited to celebrate IWD to take place at Turnberry Golf Club March 7. Arrive at 7:30 a.m. for a hot breakfast and scintillating conversation. The speaker will be Brampton West MP Kyle Seebach. Tickets are $35 and can be purchased at Flora Florists (905-846-6111) at Conestoga Mall, Bovaird Drive East, or from any Zonta member. There will be door prizes to be won and yellow roses that can be purchased to celebrate the women in your life. Back to work at 9 a.m.

Town of Caledon Intensification Strategy

Welcome to the "Made for Caledon" Intensification Strategy

The Town of Caledon has initiated a study to determine how intensification will be incorporated throughout the Town.

Intensification is usually defined as an increase in density within built-up settlement and designated greenfield areas.

Intensification can be achieved in several ways from new development of vacant land within built-up areas as well as the redevelopment of under-used lands. Intensification, in the right built form, can help strengthen neighbourhoods by improving and utilizing existing community services, roads and infrastructure.

Your opinion is very important! We need your input to help guide us in what intensification should look like and where it should go in the Town of Caledon. The results of these community meetings will help serve Town Council to better understand the current and future direction for a Town-wide intensification strategy.

If you are interested, you may choose to attend one of three (3) meetings scheduled on Tuesday, February 18, 2014 at the following times and locations:

9:30 a.m. - 12:00 p.m. Caledon Village Place,
18313 Hurontario Street

1:00 p.m. - 3:30 p.m. Inglewood Community Centre,
15825 McLaughlin Road

7:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Albion Bolton Community Centre,

Town of Caledon wants your Input on it's Environmental Strategic Plan

The Town of Caledon has taken a strong stance on its identity as the "Greenest Town in Ontario". In maintaining that reputation, the Town is in the process of updating its Environmental Strategic Plan, the "Environmental Progress Action Plan". On February 25, the Town invites you to both comment on and suggest new actions in an interactive afternoon of creative presentations and consultations with some of the Town's most dynamic environmental leaders.

The Pan Am One-Year Countdown Planning Committee is recruiting volunteers to assist with planning and implementation of the event.

Volunteers would commit to four hours a month by attending bi-weekly meetings of two hours each. The meetings will be hosted at the Caledon Community Complex, 6215 Old Church Road, Caledon East.

For more information or to volunteer your time please contact Beth Cooper, Manager of Recreation, Town of Caledon Parks and Recreation at beth.cooper@caledon.ca.

Tall Snow Banks can be a Hazard!

Public Works wants to remind parents to caution their children when playing around snow banks created by the large amount of snowfall. Digging forts which could collapse OR slipping into traffic off high elevated snow banks are considered potentially hazardous and harmful. Motorists, please be on the lookout for children, pedestrians & other vehicles when entering intersections, side streets & driveways.

Also note:

INTERFERING WITH SNOW PLOWING OPERATIONS

In order that Public Works can efficiently clear snow from roads, residents are reminded that parking is not permitted on streets during a winter storm. Overnight parking considerations are deemed invalid during this time.

SNOW ON ROADWAYS

Residents are reminded that when clearing snow from your driveway that you should not deposit your excess snow on the roadway. This accumulation of snow causes obstructions and may result in a vehicle losing control. Please clear your snow onto your own property and not into ditches or the road allowance.

OBSTRUCTING SIDEWALKS

Sidewalks need to be kept free of obstructions so that residents can safely walk without having to travel on the roadway. Wheelchairs and seniors who have difficulty negotiating curbs cannot easily move around vehicles blocking the sidewalk. Also, sidewalk plows have limited space to maneuver around cars and in many cases cannot clear the sidewalk.

Tilson announces federal government support for Bolton business

A Bolton company is going to be getting up to $50,000 in federal funding to help with the development of multi-language traffic warning signs.

Dufferin — Caledon MP David Tilson was on hand recently at D&R Electronics Co. Ltd. on George Bolton Parkway to announce the investment from the government. It will be coming through the National Research Council of Canada's Industrial Research Assistance Program (NRC IRAP).

"The purpose of this project is to design our own multi-language LED traffic director messaging system to allow us to compete globally in this market sector," commented D&R Electronics Vice-President Alfredo Dalorfi. "Having our own product that we can market globally will open new export market opportunities and growth for D&R Electronics Co. Ltd. and will create new job opportunities in the Bolton area as our business grows."

"NARC IRAP has been extremely helpful in assisting our company to grow and be competitive with financial contributions, technological advisory services and connecting us with government assistance programs that we may qualify for, while also accelerating our product development tie frame in getting products to market," he added.

"Our government is strongly committed to initiatives that support science, technology and the growth of innovative Canadian firms," Tilson commented. "Like so many small and medium-sized businesses in Ontario, D&R Electronics Co. Ltd. is doing some really innovative work. These businesses are critical to the Canadian economy, and our government will continue to put in place the tools that Canadian businesses need to grow, create jobs and secure long-term prosperity."

D&R Electronics designs, manufactures, assembles and installs a wide variety of innovative, customized and standard police and emergency service vehicle lighting systems, sirens, flashers and mobile mounting console technologies.

Company President Rinaldo Darolfi said the work they are doing is aimed at getting into other markets, like the Middle East.

Tilson's bill on war memorials advances from second reading in the Senate

Dufferin-Caledon MP David Tilson has expressed satisfaction at the passage of his private member's bill at second reading in the Senate.

The bill is an act to amend the Criminal Code regarding mischief relating to war memorials.

"I'm pleased my bill has progressed another stage towards becoming the law of the land," Tilson said. "We owe it to our veterans and the fallen to protect our cenotaphs and war memorials."

The bill had to undergo second reading for a second time due to last fall's prorogation of Parliament. It had previously passed at second reading at the end of March, 2013, but had not been heard at Committee before Parliament rose for the summer recess.

The bill now moves to the Senate's Legal and Constitutional Affairs Committee, where senators will give it further study, call witnesses and hear testimony from interested parties.

"I look forward to testifying before the Senate's Legal and Constitutional Affairs Committee," Tilson commented. "I hope senators will feel as MPs did, that stronger deterrents are needed to prevent senseless and disgusting acts of vandalism against our cenotaphs and war memorials."

The bill, which was passed by the House of Commons Oct. 31, 2012, amends the mischief section of the Criminal Code by making a specific offense for mischief involving a war memorial, cenotaph or other structures honouring or remembering those who have served in Canadian Forces and those who have died as a consequence of war. It seeks to impose minimum penalties of a fine not less than $1,000 for a first offence, a prison term of not less than 14 days for a second offence and a prison term of not less than 30 days for all subsequent offences.

Tilson added the New Democratic Party voted against the bill at third reading in the House of Commons.

Don't want more growth in Bolton

Regarding the letter "Town policies cause businesses to fail" (Jan.30) by John van Eeden, this gentleman couldn't be more off the mark.

To claim that Baffo's failed because of a lack of clientele is absolutely ludicrous, after successfully having operated here for 40 years, beginning when Bolton was but a fraction of its current size.

The owner made, by his own admission, bad business decisions, and when that occurs, the town cannot be expected to increase its population in order to bail out this or any other business.

Baffo's took a risk in changing its venue, to which one would respond with "if it works well and isn't broke – don't fix it."

Van Eeden would like to see, instead of the Canadian Tire warehouse, 1,800 more residents at that location. Really?

Why do we, the town, have to "manage" every square foot under our jurisdiction and not just leave this area of Coleraine and Healey at what it was good at for a couple of centuries, namely a farm. That would have preserved a green space at the periphery of Bolton, one which most cities have in the form of parks.

This Canadian Tire Monstrosity most certainly is in the wrong location, especially considering that there are plenty of "employment lands" along both sides of Airport Road, north of Mayfield Road, which don't seem to bother anyone.

Instead, however, van Eeden would put residential homes at the Coleraine location to house 1,800 more residents, to order pizzas from Baffo's to bail him out, no doubt.

If he really likes such a population density, one is left to wonder what he is doing in Bolton, when he can live with 10s of thousands of people in nearby Toronto, Mississauga or even Brampton.

I don't believe anybody came out here to live in order to make the community grow as big as our neighbouring cities. I have lived here for 47 years and have seen more than enough growth, from when all of Bolton comprised of about 2,300 people.

Now, regarding collecting taxes in one lump sum from Canadian Tire versus from 450 home owners at that location, why would council be so determined to garner ever more income and squeeze a dime out of every square inch under its jurisdiction when running a town is a "not-for-profit" scenario; just to collect for necessary expenditures?

The likely reason may be that councilors find it more intriguing to manipulate $10 million versus just $1 million. The greater the amount, the greater their perceived importance. It can't be anything else.

So I suggest they play Monopoly at council meetings and save Caledon's population from their grand schemes in the real world.

Much to do at Exchange

Re: CCS Celebrates Opening of the Exchange (Citizen, Feb. 6), we appreciate this attention because one of our top priorities in the months ahead is to attract all of Caledon to the Exchange. So what's next?

The Exchange's grand opening represents the climb to the summit. There are rewards on the top that honour the perseverance and dedication of so many community builders in Caledon. One such reward was when Melina, 8, and Zach, 6, recently dropped by with their mom to donate birthday gifts and a trunk load of food. Melina told me that she kept her family's gifts, but was donating all her other gifts from her party. This little one could make anyone's heart melt. She and her brother spent the afternoon with us, working in the warehouse. They returned the following week and volunteered once again. Melina is now wanting to launch a fundraiser in her school via the sale of bracelets. Her mom is making the Exchange a regular Friday afternoon volunteer experience for the two children.

This family has captured the essence of the Exchange: Engaging; healthy; community-building; fun. Melina and Zach's company a Friday afternoon can remind all of the Exchange's builders of exactly what we hope to accomplish in the months and years ahead.

For families, we will soon have Mars Canada launching its Ben's Beginners family classes, where their chef will share tricks and tips that'll have your family eating healthy nutritious foods and even enjoying the preparation. We're working on weekend and evening programming as well, so stay tuned. The United Way of Peel Region has just committed a two-year grant to the Exchange, allowing us to work closely with almost a dozen other community agencies and bring their services into this community hub. When that begins, we're going to see all kinds of activities happening at once in this beautiful new community space. The Central West Local Health Integration Authority (LHIN) has expressed an interest in getting behind the Exchange so that it can support our seniors' health and wellness through activities and healthy eating.

The emerging picture is becoming clear: We're soon to have Caledon's older adults involved in one thing or another with Caledon's children; schools will come aboard to use the Exchange as a teaching tool; our community libraries want to launch programming here; and on and on it goes!

Please drop in on the Exchange Monday to Friday between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. The staff and volunteers are eager to welcome you, take you on a tour alone or with your family and tell you about the activities in which you can become involved.

Help us build the Exchange. Melina and Zach are, so can you!

Monty Laskin,
Caledon Community Services

It happened today

Olympics are on the minds of many these days, and with good reason.

Canada has hosted the games a couple of times, including the Winter Games 26 years ago in Calgary. There were many hopes at the time for Canadian medals, but in the end, the best the host country could do was two silvers and three bronze.

Things have improved since then.

The Calgary Games opened this day, Feb. 13, 1988.

Olympics are worth watching

No matter what one's politics might say, or what, if any, sports one might be a fan of.

It's very hard not to be attracted to a spectacle like the opening of the Olympic Games.

I would have loved to have been able to watch the opening ceremonies of Sochi Games live, as they were happening. But it is reality that I work for people who actually expect me to work in the middle of a work day. So I worked.

Actually, Friday was the last day of my vacation, but I had a lot to do, so I worked.

But I was able to watch most of it at home that evening, and I was impressed, as I'm sure I was meant to be.

It was pleasing to the eye and ear. There was beautiful music, reflecting the fact that Russia has produced some marvelous composers over the generations. I was moved enough by the scenes I was watching to actually look up the spelling of Tchaikovsky. The wonderful excerpts from Swan Lake underscored that. And the opening scenes, shown through the eyes of a child, were nothing short of enchanting.

"The soul is healed by being with children."

Those are the words of Fyodor Dostoyevsky, the renowned Russian writer, and that quote was very appropriately cited by one of the CBC commentators during the spectacle.

No such event comes off without a hitch, and that goes for ceremonies like this. There was the glitch involving the snowflakes turning into the Olympic symbol. The fact is this is not a perfect world.

Besides, the Olympic flame ignited without a hitch. I think there are few sights more moving than watching athletes march into the stadium to start Olympic competition. Is there any person reading these words who has not dreamed of being part of such an occasion? How can any of us help but be envious of these people?

Envy aside, it is a fact that these people made it to that parade by earning their places. And for every one of them, there were probably a couple of dozen frustrated and disappointed young athletes who came close. Such is the reality of athletic competition. It was the late Jim McKay who coined the phrase "the thrill of victory, and the agony of defeat."

"You are not only the best," International Olympic Committee President told the competitors. "You are Olympic athletes."

In the middle of all the pomp and glamour lie the ideals of the Olympic movement. Lofty ideals they indeed are, reflecting the belief in fair and honourable competition. Athletic prowess, competitive spirit and the indomitable power of the human will ultimately prevail. "Faster, higher, stronger" is the Olympic motto.

Would it not be nice if all of this reflected reality?

Alas, it is reality that other factors come into play when the games are among us, and that includes politics.

That was even alluded to during the coverage of the opening ceremonies. As the Austrian athletes marched into the stadium, CBC commentators observed that there was a bid to have these games held in that country, based on the argument it wasn't Sochi.

There are other such examples.

These games are being seen, by some, as a platform for gay rights. While I am sympathetic, and can certainly understand there have been many concerns expressed by the way gays are treated in Russia, one would hope this event can get beyond that.

I know I sound a little naive with some of these comments. I do understand reality, and it's true that politics have always been part of the Olympics and always will be.

The certainly were in 1936, when Hitler used the games to promote the rubbish he stood for. Many Western countries told the Soviets what they could do with the games they hosted in Moscow in 1980, and several countries joined the Soviets in a boycott of their own four years later.

And there was the horror of the 1972 games and the terrorist attack against the athletes from Israel. A bomb went off during the 1996 Games in Atlanta. I think a lot of people in Sochi are tense that there might be some such incident in the coming days.

In this very real world, there is no way to get away from politics.

But even without that, there are ways to get off the main message, with his supposed to be the athletics.

We've already seen one example with the current games, in the form of reports that some of the figure skating judges have been making deals on the side. There's really no way of knowing how true that is. It's also very easy to dismiss complaints about bad judging as simply coming from sore losers.

Actually, I have always had a problem with any sport in which competitions are decided by the opinions of some people. In timed events, the matter is decided by a clock. Team sports like hockey have clear rules, as well as methods of deciding who wins and who doesn't.

But in sports like figure skating, how can one know for sure that everything is as it should be? And without practical and objective ways of picking a winner, does something like this qualify as a sport? I know the top figure skaters in the world are superb athletes. The physical and mental prowess needed to compete at that level is amazing. How many of you guys can hold a girl over your head with one hand? That being said, is it really a sport?

The freestyle skiing mogul events are another example. Like just about all Canadians, I was pleased to see Justine and Chloé Dufour-Lapointe win their medals, and being the soft, sentimental slob that I am, I felt sorry for their sister Maxime, who didn't make it to the podium. But I worry that it was judges who made the decision, and not a clock.

As well, my knees hurt when I watched the competition.

Some of these events in the Olympics (especially the Winter Games) puzzle me a little. The mogul events are on that list. How does one aspire to take part in something like that, racing down a bumpy course and performing a back flip in the middle of it all. Ski jumping is another one.

My wife and I were watching some ski jumping over the weekend, and at one point, I turned to Beth and told her that as a kid, if I had told my father I wanted to give ski jumping a try, not only would probably not have let me, he would have told me I was nuts. Yet people get into these sports when they're young, and some of them get so good that they find themselves invited to the Olympics.

The Games have another 10 days to run, and I expect I will be watching more of them. For one thing, the Leafs won't be playing, so Beth, who usually is in charge of the remote in our house, will probably switch the Olympics on. I know she likes to watch figure skating, and we'll probably tune in for the hockey games.

The Olympics are a special time, with lots of special moments for those taking part. True, there are some problems with the Games. It will be interesting, for example, to see how close they come to being on budget.

But they only come every couple of years, and they're worth watching.

That's what we plan to do, and so do a lot of you out there.

Council is committed to having a vibrant arts community in town

Last spring, council received a presentation from the Caledon Arts Advisory Committee, outlining how it will connect with the artistic sector of our community, our artists, our arts organizations, theatre, dance, visual arts, literary arts — in short, all of the art disciplines in our town.

Council is committed to a vibrant arts community. Fundamentally, it is integral to the quality of life, economic sustainability and long-term creative foundation of our town.

The Arts Advisory Committee is developing an up-to-date inventory of the individuals, groups, organizations, arts/culture associations and disciplines presently operating within the town. This inventory will ultimately become a valuable resource for consulting with the arts community to help establish programs, services and/or facilities that will sustain the arts and artists of Caledon.

Many of you may have seen the “Looking for the Arts” posters, post cards and ads in the Town page of the local newspapers. These promotional materials were designed to encourage local artists to complete a brief online survey on the Town’s website at www.caledon.ca/arts, something you can still do so if you haven’t already. To date, we have had a terrific response with more than 70 individuals and groups responding to the survey.

The plan for the Arts Advisory Committee is to review your responses and suggestions and determine what the top issues are facing artists and arts groups in Caledon. Based on these top five or so “priorities,” the Committee will prepare a follow-up questionnaire and poll the arts community once again to seek suggestions from the arts community to meet these priorities. Based on these results then, the Arts Advisory Committee prepare a report to council with recommendations based on your needs, the needs of Caledon’s arts community. It will then be up to council to consider and prioritize these recommendations within overall Town priorities.

The Town of Caledon’s Strategic Goals and Objectives promote culture, heritage and the arts. At the same time, they encourage a dynamic cultural community by inspiring residents to participate in the arts. I believe the work of the Arts Advisory Committee to open up lines of communication with the artists of Caledon will help us to increase and enhance the diversity of artistic experiences and programs in our town. Caledon is committed to encouraging local artists and performers to showcase their talent and these goals are supported by the work of our Arts Advisory Committee.

Once again, if you are a practising artist or are the official representative of an artistic group or association in Caledon, I urge you to take the time to complete the short questionnaire at www.caledon.ca/arts

As mentioned, a vibrant Arts community is essential to the quality of life, and the economic sustainability of our town. Please take a moment to support arts in Caledon by completing the survey.

Be sure to support our Olympian and Paralympian Athletes in Sochi

Just as the world’s top athletes gather in Sochi for the 2014 Olympic and Paralympic Winter Games, Canadians from coast to coast will also come together to support our athletes in their pursuit of excellence.

The achievements of our Canadian athletes at home and around the world are an enormous source of pride for all Canadians.

Our government is proud to be the single largest investor of amateur sport in Canada, as we support participation from the playground to the podium. Research consistently indicates that sports and recreation play an important role in personal health and quality of life. This is why our government offers continued support for community-based programs like ParticipACTION, to help promote active and healthy lifestyles among all Canadians.

winter sports over the last four-year winter sport cycle. In turn, the participation of our Canadian athletes in the 2014 Sochi Olympic and Paralympic Winter Games serves as an opportunity to promote our culture and our values of openness, equality and fair play, as well as an opportunity to affirm Canada’s reputation as a leading sport nation.

The 2014 Sochi Olympics and Paralympic Winter Games are an incredible milestone in the sport careers of our athletes, a milestone achieved through years of training and dedication. The tenacity and accomplishments of our Canadian athletes are truly an inspiration to all Canadians and a reminder of the importance of harnessing the power of sport in living healthy and active lives.

As our Canadian athletes compete at the Games in Sochi, I would like to congratulate each and every one for their success in reaching this incredible milestone. Their dedication and drive, which has brought them to the 2014 Sochi Olympic and Paralympic Winter Games, has already made Canadians across the country very proud.

So as our Canadian athletes take on the world’s best athletes wearing the maple leaf, I wish each and every one the very best.

Go Canada go!

Jones congratulates Winter Olympic athletes

Dufferin-Caledon MPP Sylvia Jones is congratulating all Olympians, especially those who hail from the riding, who will be competing at the Sochi Winter Olympics and the Sochi Winter Paralympics.

Three athletes call Dufferin-Caledon home: Jake Holden — snowboard cross; Brittany Webster — cross-country skiing; and Caleb Flaxey — curling. The Canadian Paralympian team is still being finalized, but the sledge hockey squad is set and it includes Orton native Bradley Bowden returning to the roster once again (Bowden competed in the 2006 and 2010 Olympics).

“I am thrilled to see some local talent compete in the Sochi Winter games,” Jones said. “For an athlete, the Olympics is a hallmark event that defines many years of practice, skill development and training.”

“Congratulations Jake, Brittany, Caleb and Bradley,” she added. “We will be cheering for you proudly.”

Canada is sending its largest team to date with a total of 221 athletes in 93 out of 98 medal competitions. Paralympian athletes compete in six medal competitions.

A small part of the tyranny

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Claire Hoy

The late English politician John Lubbock once cleverly quipped, “What we see depends mainly on what we look for.”

Which — you may wonder how — brings us to the ongoing winter Olympics in Sochi, Russia, particularly the two major subjects of world-wide protest, i.e. Russia’s virulently anti-homosexual laws and their obvious cruelty in rounding up and killing stray dogs.

I’m not suggesting for a moment that either one of these complaints is ill-founded or insignificant.

I do believe, however, that given the scope of Russian President Vladimir Putin’s autocrat activities, his views on dogs and gays, however repugnant they may be, pale by comparison to the things he’s doing which barely raise an international eyebrow, let alone a world-wide protest movement.

Once again, Toronto city hall got into a mini-spat when Mayor Rob Ford thought it was more appropriate to fly the Canadian flag to cheer our Olympians on than to fly the rainbow flag to show solidarity with Russia’s gay community.

Several cities across Canada have taken down their Canadian flags and hoisted the rainbow flag as part of this well-orchestrated lobby campaign to convince Putin of the error of his ways.

Fair enough, I suppose.

But if we’re going to take a stand against Putin for his human rights abuses, where’s the same outrage for his brutal crackdown on all civil society inside Russia — his arbitrary jailing and torture of dissidents, for example — not to mention his overt support for two of the world’s worst regimes, i.e. Syria and Iran?

To be sure, his ridiculous law banning homosexual “propaganda” is totally absurd. And while, as we’ve said, it has drawn worldwide outrage, does it really compare in scope or intensity to his ongoing arms sales to Syrian President Bashar al-Assad, who continues to slaughter his own people, or to the tyrannical Iranian regime, arguably the world’s biggest exporter of terrorism?

Amy Knight, a leading U.S. historian and Russian expert, has estimated that the Kremlin sent $1 billion worth of weaponry to the Assad regime in 2011 alone, the year the ongoing war began. Where is the international outcry about that? The festivals of indignation? The signs? The flags? The howls of outrage?

It’s a question of perspective here. It’s not that the anti-gay law and the fate of Sochi’s stray dogs are insignificant. They’re not. It’s just that when compared to the other things Putin and his thugs are perpetrating on the world, they’re hardly in the same league.

Yet we rarely hear much public concern about the growing body count of Syrians — where at least 100,000 men, women and children have died, many of them through the use of chemical weapons — thanks in a large part to Putin’s continued supply of arms to Assad.

Where’s the public outrage there? Where are the marches, the protests, in the face of such inhuman butchery in which Putin is clearly — and openly — complicit? And where is the outrage over Iran’s continued pursuit of nuclear bombs and its intent to not only wipe Israel off the face of the earth but its active support for anti-western terrorist organizations around the world?

Indeed, where was the public outrage when the International Olympic Committee actually awarded the Olympics to this tyrant in the first place?

While the western media in Sochi reports on Putin’s anti-gay activities, we are treated to the awful spectre of NBC sports commentator Bob Costas telling us at the opening of the games that Putin is a great “peacemaker.”

Putin? Peacemaker? This is the man that Human Rights Watch, among others, have documented as having created the “worst human rights climate since Soviet times.” And that’s just inside Russia, not even counting what he’s done in Syria, Iran and, let’s not forget, the Ukraine.

Under Putin’s iron fist, for example, all foreign NGOs — many of which are Canadian — are labeled as clandestine enemies under a series of restrictive laws aimed at harassing, intimidating and even jailing anyone he doesn’t like.

Yet the only law we hear about these days is his laws against homosexual “propaganda.” Again — since I know from experience there are readers who are only too happy to take it out of context and accuse your correspondent of being homophobic — this is in no way meant to dismiss this law as insignificant and unworthy of protest.

It’s just, as we’ve said before, a matter of perspective.

And in the gamut of Putin’s domestic and international abuses, there are many, many things that deserve at least a share of the coverage being devoted to it.

As Lubbock said at the outset, “What we see depends mainly on what we look for.” And it seems to me that too many people have tunnel vision and are only looking at a small part of Putin’s horrendous tyranny.

The Bolton Residential Expansion Study

You are invited to attend a Public Open House for the Bolton Residential Expansion Study (BRES).

Council on July 9, 2013 directed staff to carry out detailed review of Options 1 and 3 lands to determine the most viable future expansion area. The Town is interested in seeking your input in the selection of future settlement area in Bolton. The Open House is scheduled to be held on:

DATE: Tuesday, March 4, 2014
TIME: 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m.
(with a formal presentation scheduled at 7:30 p.m.)
PLACE: Albion Bolton Community Centre
150 Queen Street, Bolton

The BRES is intended to determine where and how to accommodate the residential and population-related employment growth of 10,348 people and 2,635 jobs for the Bolton Rural Service Centre by 2031, as determined by the Town’s Official Plan Amendment 226. The study, which consists of 5 phases, is to explore boundary expansion alternatives and will recommend a new settlement area for consideration by Council. A detailed community plan will be developed for the selected expansion area that balances economic, social and environmental interests.

Members of Caledon community are welcome to participate in the Study through public open houses, design charrettes, and a statutory public meeting during key stages of the process. A project webpage has been established at www.caledon.ca where you can find updates about BRES, and staff contact information for interested parties and members of the public to submit comments.

Have input on keeping Caledon greenest town in Ontario

Caledon has been known as the “greenest town in Ontario,” and efforts have been mounted to keep things that way. The Town is updating its Environmental Strategic Plan, known as the Environmental Progress Action Plan, and the public is invited to comment.

LOTS OF BOTTLES COLLECTED

Residents are invited to a roundtable session at Caledon Community Complex in Caledon East Feb. 25 to provide input and generate ideas on what the Town can do to reduce its impact on the environment. The session will run from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Those wishing to confirm their attendance, or to get more information, are asked to contact Energy and Environment Officer Katelyn McFadyen at environment@caledon.ca or 905-584-2272, ext. 4169. “The Town of Caledon has made significant progress on improving its Plan and considering the environment in all activities undertaken at the Town,” Mayor Marolyn Morrison observed. “To maintain our momentum, and our status as the Greenest Town in Ontario, we want to refresh our actions and focus on areas based on the innovation and creativity that exists in our community and from municipal best practices.” This plan, created in 2005, focused on prioritizing environmental strategic initiatives for the Town. The existing plan was built upon consultations with Town staff, council and local stakeholder groups to define focus areas like air quality, a green economy, climate change, environmental awareness, sustainable planning, community capacity, energy, etc.

Lend a helping paw to pets in need

This Valentine’s Day includes an opportunity to give local animal shelters a helping hand by supporting Global Pet Foods’ eighth annual Show Us Your Heart campaign. Devoted pet parent Don Cherry is once again teaming up with Global Pet Foods to help shine a spotlight on homeless pets through the annual fundraiser. “There is nothing more heartbreaking than a homeless pet wanting to be loved,” Cherry said. “Show Us Your Heart is an easy way to give back and make a real difference to pets in need.” Until Feb. 15, Global Pet Foods and Hill’s Ideal Balance, along with Cherry, are asking Canadian pet parents to donate as little as $1 to help raise funds for local animal shelters across Canada. “When you donate to Show Us Your Heart you’re supporting smaller, community-based organizations - the local shelters and groups that don’t receive government funding or have their own fundraising departments,” said Global Pet Foods President Jim Walker. “These shelters do all the work, often on their own dime and through the blood, sweat, and tears of volunteers. This is our way of giving back to them.” Visit any Global Pet Foods store to donate. Donate as little as $1 in-store and Global Pet Foods and Hill’s Ideal Balance will match it. Donations can also be made online by visiting <http://www.globalpetfoods.com> For the chance to win even more great prizes, visit Facebook.com/globalpetfoods and enter the “Show Us Your Pet” Contest.

Headwaters Concert Choir to sing at Carnegie Hall

By Constance Scrafield

The rewards of travelling regularly to a central point to rehearse, to sing with all one's concentration, getting the notes, the rhythm, harmonies, entrances all right and remembered are not only a great joy to those who participate in community choirs; those efforts can sometimes also be rewarded by unthinkable opportunities.

So it is and has been for the Headwaters Concert Choir, joining forces with several other such groups to form the Great Lakes Touring Chorus, the emphasis on which is "touring."

The Chorus has won acclaim for its performances and interpretations of Handel's Messiah, Carl Orff's Carmina Burana and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, to mention but a few.

In addition, the founder and conductor of GLTC, Robert Hennig, a graduate of the University of Toronto, has himself won the Toronto Kopaz Foundation award and the Canadian Opera's Women's Society award for musical excellence, along with the Brampton Arts Council Bloom award for best new composition for his Alleluia for Peace. Hennig is also the director for the Brampton Festival Singers and the Headwaters Concert Choir.

His wife, Shelagh Tyremann, co-founder and assistant co-director of the Great Lakes Touring Chorus, has degrees from University of Toronto and Mount Royal University as well as studies from other prestigious arts institutions.

As a result of being invited to perform at the Haydn Choral Music Festival in 2009, the GLTC went to Austria and the Czech Republic. For anyone who understands music and acoustics, it was the trip of a lifetime. They had the chance to sing in the acoustically perfect Haydn Hall within the Esterhazy Palace in Vienna and the fabulous Melk Abbey.

During that 2009 tour, they went on to Prague in the Czech Republic to sing with the Prague chorus, Inventus.

It was during that tour that they were invited to go to France in March 2010 to participate in the 65th Anniversary of the Liberation of France by the Allies, in the course of which tour they also sang in the great Cathedral of Notre Dame de Paris.

As it happened, that trip yielded yet another invitation which saw them performing at St. Peter's Basilica in Rome in March 2012.

We had the chance to talk about those adventures and the next thrilling trip for the GLTC with Nancy Claridge, a member of the Headwaters Concert Choir and the GLTC.

"They were amazing trips," she commented. "We went places other travellers wouldn't be able to go. Imagine singing in the Esterhazy Palace or the Vatican."

The next excitement for the GLTC is a trip to New York City today (Thursday) to represent Canada in a massed choir that will perform next Monday at Carnegie Hall. While they were in Rome, Hennig met some people from New York who encouraged them to enter a contest with Distinguished Concerts International New York (DCINY) by sending a recording. This resulted in an invitation to sing in a concert at the famous Carnegie Hall.

Organized by DCINY to honour music publisher Shawnee Press on its 75th anniversary, the original plan was for the GLTC to go to New York in mid-March to perform Mozart's Requiem, which they had already sung.

As it turned out, the Vienna Philharmonic wanted the mid-March dates. There was then the suggestion to move the DCINY concert to the Lincoln Centre, another famed venue. However, the choirs wanted the once-in-a-lifetime chance to sing at Carnegie Hall, so not only the dates were changed but so was the repertoire.

This has meant that GLTC members have had to work hard to learn the new music, some 11 pieces, which they will be performing with other groups. They will be singing with a full symphony orchestra, which is a different experience from being accompanied by a other smaller orchestra or piano.

"The music is about the same level as the Mozart," Hennig, told us in a telephone interview, "and this was all new material for us."

The group is also scheduled for 15 hours of rehearsals and workshops before the Feb. 17 concert.

The music to be performed by the collection of choirs has all been published by Shawnee Press. In addition, the composers and arrangers of the music will be at the rehearsals and giving the workshops – a rare opportunity for the singers to work with the composers.

Furthermore, GLTC is singing a completely different repertoire at the Episcopal cathedral church of St. John the Divine Friday. This performance invitation, which the chorus is singing on its own, came as a result of the trip to Rome, too.

The GLTC has choristers from the broader area of Dufferin, Caledon, Brampton, Toronto and Mississauga, all coming together under Hennig's directorship. They have been rehearsing at St. Joseph's Anglican Church in Bramalea, where Hennig is organist/choirmaster and have been preparing for this performance since late last spring.

Said Hennig, rather reflectively, "This is like a dream come true – like a lifetime achievement, to take a group to New York. I think a lot of the choir don't understand what they're about to do but it will hit them when they get there."

"In Europe too, you're dealing with a society that is so well educated. They've heard the music performed by other groups," he added. "They know what to listen for."

Of the talent in the GLTC, he commented: "Early retirees are volunteering – they want to be involved in the arts. We've been able to attract people with high music skills, some are pretty well accomplished. People like Orangeville and come there to retire. It's quite a pocket of talent. A lot of them were with the Mendelssohn Choir."

It could be a pair of track shoes, a theatrical costume, or maybe even a robotics set. If your child has a passion for something, we will harness it and take it to a whole new level. We will essentially attach a big set of sub-woofers to it and allow it to be amplified to the world. If they have yet to find it, we will dig down deep and explore all the possibilities, and not stop until we unearth that one thing that opens their mind and their eyes as big as humanly possible. It's an incredible place to discover big, dreamy answers to the question,

Jake Holden is impressed with support from his town

Belfountain area Olympian Jake Holden stood down from Friday's opening ceremonies of the Sochi Games, but he plans to be there when it counts.

Just hours before he left for Sochi, Holden took some time to catch up with local Olympic coach Barrie Shepley, who he's known for more than a decade.

Shepley reported that Holden watched the opening ceremonies from his training base in Whistler, B.C.

"Jake and his snowboard cross teammates wisely decided to stay in Canada as long as possible to keep their preparations going without any distractions," Shepley said.

He added when he spoke to Holden, he had just received his Kinetico - C3 and Town of Caledon "Good Luck" banners. They contained more than 4,000 signatures and expressions of best wishes.

Holden said he was "pretty emotional" realizing that his old grade school, high school, ski club friends and sponsors from Caledon had taken the time to get out and leave the messages. He added he will proudly carry the banner and flag to Sochi and bring a part of the town with him for good luck.

"I could not have gotten here without the amazing support of so many people, starting with my parents, coaches and sponsors," he observed.

Holden's races are scheduled for Feb 17. "It's pretty cool to realize that I will be on the same Canadian Team as hockey player Sydney Crosby, cross country skier Alex Harvey and our flag bearer Hayley Wickenheiser," he said.

Holden is also pumped up to watch the results fellow Caledon Olympian Brittany Webster, who is expected to race three times over the two weeks.

See if you can see your autograph on Jake Holden's banner!

The public is encouraged to drop by and sign notes of encouragement to Flaxey. The Town flag will be available for signing until tomorrow (Friday) at Town Hall at 6311 Old Church Rd. in Caledon East.

Golden Hawks trailing 3-1 in quarter-final against Schomberg

By Brian Lockhart

A 7-0 loss to the Schomberg Cougars Monday (Feb. 10) leaves the Caledon Golden Hawks down two games in their first round Georgian Mid Ontario Hockey League playoff series.

The Hawks led the series after the first game when they left the ice with a convincing 6-2 win on home ice last Sunday (Feb. 2).

In that game, the Caledon squad took the victory in the third period with three goals against the Cougars, who appeared to be running out of gas in the final 20 minutes.

The Hawks were leading 3-2 in the second frame on goals from Steven Klomp, Daniel Cafagna and Chris Smith. Two of those goals came on a powerplay.

Klomp and Derek Czech scored unanswered goals in the third, followed by an empty netter from Nicholas McNutt to end the game and give the Hawks the first game of the series.

Travelling to Schomberg for the second outing, the Hawks fell behind in the second period when the Cougars scored three unanswered goals to lead 5-1 going into the final 20 minutes. That included a five-on-three goal when the Hawks had two men in the penalty box.

In the third, Caledon scored two — both on powerplays — that were matched by Schomberg, and both of those goals were also on powerplays.

“The whole series, we talk before the game. Who ever is most discipline is going to win the series,” commented Hawks’ forward Cody Forgione. “That’s why we didn’t win tonight. We just had too many penalty minutes. We can’t win when we’re out there on a five-on-three.”

In total, the Hawks had 36 minutes in penalties on 14 infractions.

“We are trying to stay calm on the bench,” Forgione said. “It’s frustrating with some of the calls, but we have to realize to just keep out cool, because we can dominate them on a five-on-five.”

Coming to the series, the teams were pretty evenly matched.

Schomberg ended the regular season in fourth place with a 25-15 record compared to a fifth place finish for the Hawks with a 21-19 record.

“From what I’ve seen, they’re a young team — most of them are ‘95s. They’re small, quick. I think if we keep using our size, keep hitting, they will get frustrated,” Forgione added. “We have to keep our cool. It’s been penalties all year. We just have to bear down next game — this game, we weren’t saying anything or chirping after the whistles, so we realized that’s what we need to do.”

The return to Caledon Sunday for the third game saw the Hawks leading 3-2 at the end of the first, and 4-3 at the end of the second period.

It was the third period that did the damage when the Schomberg squad went ahead on the three goals to win 6-5.

Back to Schomberg for game four Monday, the Hawks failed to score in a match that saw Schomberg notch two in the first period, three in the second and two break-away goals in the third to end the game at 7-0.

The series isn’t over, but with a two-game deficit, the Golden Hawks will have to pull off a major comeback to win. Anything is possible.

The series will be over if Schomberg wins one more game.

Game five is scheduled for tonight (Thursday) in Schomberg.

The puck drop is scheduled for 8:30 p.m.

The Caledon Hawks atom A team played the Oakville Blades during game one of the Tri-County playoffs. The Hawks had to settle for a 1-0 loss when the Oakville squad scored with a little more than three minutes remaining in the third period.

Atom A Hawks enter Tri-County playoffs

By Brian Lockhart

Despite a loss in their first game in the Tri-County playoffs, the Caledon Hawks atom A squad turned out a stellar performance during their match against the Oakville Blades Sunday at Caledon East.

The game went almost a full three periods before anyone could score. Oakville notched the only goal with 3:15 left on the clock in the third.

The Hawks put six attackers on the ice in a bid to tie it up, but despite a couple of near misses, they couldn’t find the back of the Oakville net and had to settle for the loss.

Goalie Tyler Kirkland played an outstanding game in the Hawks’ net, stopping 23 shots which included some wild scrambles in front of the crease.

“He stood on his head, that’s for sure,” Hawks’ head coach Craig White commented.

Defensively, both teams were trying to keep the other squad out of the zone, resulting in the low score.

The Hawks beat the Oakville team 2-1 the previous week, so they knew, going into the game, they had a chance to come on top. The Blades won their division last season as an AE team and moved up a division this season.

“They out-shot us 24-8, they out-chanced us 10-3,” White said. “We had our moments. They got us to the point were we could pull the goalie with a minute and change left and give ourselves a chance and we almost pulled it off. They (Oakville) play hard, they’re a very skilled team. There’s a lot of AA quality players on Oakville. I thought the referees called a good game.”

On offence, Andrew Gilchrist and Ethan Amaron had a solid games. Defensively, George Kirobolis and Sebastien Palikrousis did stand-out jobs protecting the Hawks’ zone.

The Hawks have several more games on the schedule as the Tri-County playoffs continue in a round-robin style format.

Baseball league to hold AGM

The North Dufferin Baseball League will hold its annual general meeting for the 2014 season March 9 at the Lisle branch of the Royal Canadian Legion.

As part of the event, a lunch and awards presentation of the 2013 season will start at noon, followed by the meeting at 1 p.m.

The league offers both a junior and senior division with teams from Dufferin and Simcoe Counties, as well as Peel and York Regions.

Scott Woods band to appear in Caledon East

Renowned Canadian fiddler Scott Woods and his band will soon be in the area to deliver an authentic live tribute to Don Messer’s Jubilee; one of the most popular TV shows in Canadian history.

The March 30 show will be hosted by Caledon East United Church and will be at Caledon Community Complex, starting at 2 p.m. Proceeds will help to support the Building Together Fund and the Mission and Service Fund at the Church.

Scott Woods Old Time Jubilee reunites Cape Breton Tenor Tommy Leadbeater (as Charlie Chamberlain) with Canadian Grand Master fiddle Champion Woods (Don Messer) and features the Velvet Vocals of Lynda Lewis (Marg Osborne) in a two-hour masterful performance honouring the days when Don Messer and his Islanders ruled the airwaves. The fast paced, uplifting show delights audiences of all ages with old time fiddle music, sensational step dancing, trick fiddling, family humour and more.

Woods is a multiple Canadian Open and Canadian Grand Master Fiddle Champion. He is known affectionately throughout Canada as “The Flippin’ Fiddler” – a nickname earned as a result of a running somersault he does while playing his fiddle without missing a beat. Breast cancer is a frightening diagnosis for women, particularly in view of the profound secondary effects of standard of care treatments such as chemotherapy and radiation. Despite apparent gains in technology and science, mortality rates for cancer remain relatively unchanged and many who have watched family members and friends succumb to the ravages of chemical and radiation interventions are now seeking alternatives.

Since the early 1970s to present day, respected physicians and clinicians working in the fields of natural, complementary and integrative medicines have committed themselves to exploring and documenting the many excellent treatment options available for cancer patients who wish to preserve the integrity of their constitutional health while at the same time managing the disease into long-term remission. Principal among these approaches is intravenous high dose vitamin C.

Based on the Nobel-prize winning work of pioneer Dr. Linus Pauling and further developed by such luminaries as Dr. Thomas E. Levy, vitamin C IV therapy, in combination with a complete program of lifestyle modifications like an alkalinizing diet, naturopathic supplementation, hyperbaric oxygen, physical exercise, and personal inquiry, have been proven time and again to be an outstanding means by which patients given a morbid prognosis can take control of their own fate and support the body to do what it does best... restore balance and vital health.

Cancer is a diagnosis that causes tremendous fear, yet in truth it's simply a call from our wisdom bodies to bring balance and awareness to our living. Rather than experiencing this as a terrible turn of events, it can be viewed as an opportunity to be embraced and exploited for the highest and best. If you would like more information on treatment options available for both the prevention and treatment of cancer, please feel free to contact our clinic. Our naturopathic doctor has 30 years experience treating people around the world with intravenous therapy and natural medicines.

Emphasizing proactive measures of personal prevention is often sufficient to put all of us on sound footing, but should cancer or other serious illnesses strike, our doctor's attentive examination, diagnosis, and case-specific blood work, alongside supportive dietary strategies and both oral and intravenous treatments, are key for health and recovery. This work is complemented by a full range of holistic, or whole person, approaches to treatment offered by the rest of our practitioner team. Coming soon we will also be adding spa and aesthetic services to enhance relaxation, self-confidence and well-being. Watch for our grand re-opening on March 30!!! Our healing abilities are limitless!!!
